Definitely agree with all of the above posts, it is a fantastic venue, great organising team and a cracking social if you stay at the Caravan Park.

We won't be doing the event next year but that won't keep us away 😊

Thanks for all the positive comments. Dad (Nav) has hinted at Brands Hatch Stages if run in the Summer again.

Has anyone got a stage map or something we can have a look at Im a bit confused as to how theres 88miles of racing with a very minimal road section...

Looks like a good event though so may well be tempted!

There is no road sections on the TSH just a short link between stages on the Saturday.. The airfield is extensive with a good tight twisty bits and flat out sections and very fast sweeping corners for the brave.. One lap can be 6 miles... Brilliant weekend and will be back next year for sure.. Bring hard tyres though!!

I did the event for the 1st time this year and its definitely the best single venue event i have done. There is no road mileage , just short link sections. 2 days competition, evening do at the holiday park and all at a bargain price. Cannot fault it.

Not sure if theres any stage maps online for the TSH, but if you go HERE and look at the map, and there are four main runways with a perimeter track running around the outside - we use all the roads you can see with only one or two exceptions (the two "main" runways being one)

Clever stage designs (not by me) mean varied use of roads and hence the 80+ miles.

It is not just an airfield, the perimeter tracks vary from wide and flowing to narrow and twisty.
